Charles CLANTON, Jr. from Tacoma participated in the last of the 1983 Safeway/Pepsi Challenge Grocery Runs today at the Safeway located at 8400 Steilacoom Blvd. in Tacoma Co-sponsors, Pepsi-Cola, Safeway and KJR have conducted the grocery sweeps throughout 1983 to benefit food organizations in King and Pierce Counties. Close to $10,000 has been donated to local food banks throughout the year.

Selected in a random drawing last week, Mr. CLANTON had the opportunity to race through the Safeway store gathering groceries from a list of 30 items. For each item collected within the nine minutes and 50 seconds allowed, he received a $50 grocery certificate. Pepsi and Safeway match every dollar he wins in a donation to a local food organization.

"The holiday season is always a time when great demand is placed on our food banks. We are proud to take part in assisting in this all important project," said Phil Price, Marketing Manager from the local Pepsi bottler. Pepsi, Safeway and KJR plan to continue these grocery runs in 1984.

"The Day After"

The controversial film, which received much publicity before and after the broadcast of A Nuclear attack on Kansas City and devastating aftermath in the nearby town of Lawrence Kan. some think the film will cause people to think and prehaps do something such as getting involved into some type of peace work.

Others think there is nothing we can do to stop a Nuclear War and others said the movie was not as devastating as they had been led to believe, but the ideal of a Nuclear War was to horrible even to think about the effect it would have on human life, however acording to an article in the News Triibune,

KOMO spokeswoman Carolyn Davis said viewer response was not as great as expected. in fact the station received more calls earlier this month when Laura, a popular character on the soap opera General Hospital did not make a schedule appearance.

Only about 200 people called the studio in response to the program.

Minority Opportunities In Telecommunication Industry

If minnority business people want to enter the telecommunications industry, they should become acquainted with the market, know their resources and be ready for opportunities, Antonio Guernica, author of Reaching the Hispanic Market Effectively told participants at a national seminar on Telecommunications Opportunities for the Minority Entrepreneur.

More than 200 business people from throughout the United States and Puerto Rico gathered in San Antonio November 13th-15th to attend the conference sponsored by the Department of Commerce National Telecommunications and Information Administration and the SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION.

Hooks Congratulates Newly Elected Officials

NEW YORK -- NAACP Executive Director Benjamin L. Hooks sent telegrams of congratulations to the following officials who won their races for election on Tuesday, November 8:

To W. Wilson Goode - Major-elect Philadelphia:

"We in the NAACP are exceedingly proud of your tremendous victory yesterday. It is a source of hope and encouragement to our people all over the country. Please know that we stand ready to do anything possible to assist in making your efforts in Philadelphia a success and please accept our sincere congratulations for your most impressive performance."

To Senator Daniel J. Evans-Senator from Washington:

"On behalf of the officers and members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People please accept our congratulations on your election to the United States Senate. We are confident that your membership in the Senate will prove to be an asset for those who continue to struggle to make equal opportunity a reality in America. We look forward to working with you toward that end.

To Lt. Governor Martha Layne Collins-Gov.-elect of Kentucky:

"The officers and members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People extend sincere congratulations on your election to the office of Governor of Kentucky. We are particularly proud whenever a barrier has been breached and we regard your election as another example of the willingness of Americans to make mature political judgements based on the competence of the candidates. Kentucky voters have made us all proud. Our best wishes are yours."

Senator Lorrain WoJahn Comments

Tacoma Senator, Lorriane Wojahn comments on public testimony during a hearing of the Senate Commerce and Labor Committee. Committee Chairman, Larry Vognild, looks on.

Olympia -- Tacoma Senator Lorraine Wojahn said she was looking into authoring legislation to modify Washington's current fire works laws.

Wojahn, vice-chairman of the Senate Commerce and Labor Committee, said she listened closely to all the testimony which was given before the Committee at a recent Olympia hearing.

"I was appalled at the rate of increase of fireworks related injury cases since we loosened fireworks regulations last year, " Wojahn said.

"Severe injury such as blindness, burns and loss of limbs from fireworks related activity has nearly doubled. The fact that most of these cases are predominately unsupervised youth, makes it even more traffic."

Wojahn commented that any legislation drafted would have to take a balanced approach.

"We need to protect the public while not infringing on the rights of those individuals who want to buy legal fireworks from service groups which support charitable causes from the sale of fireworks."

Wojahn said she was looking into the possibility of requiring individuals to purchase permits when fireworks are brought.

"We can never pass legislation to stop all misuse of fireworks," Wojahn said, "but we can aid law enforcement personnel by mandating that everyone who uses fireworks have a valid permit."

Wojahn said, she looked forward to hearing further testimony from local government representatives at future hearings.

Jobs Going Unfilled

Job vacancies are going unfilled in the Puget Sound area because of a lack of trained people according to I.A. "Swede" Turnquist, preparatory program supervisor for Clover Park Vocational-Technical Institute in Tacoma.

Turnquist reported that many requests by local employers for trained people are going unanswered because "low enrollments in some programs are resulting in fewer people being trained for available jobs."

He claims that "jobs are available throughout the area for people with the right job skills."

Examples he offered included high employer demand for bowling center maintenance technicians, hotel and restaurant workers, security technicians, recreational vehicle mechanics, workers in several health occupations, retailers and others.

Turnquist said Clover Park has also started some new programs in response to industry's stated need for new workers "and those programs are also experiencing low enrollment." He listed them as mixologist (bartenders), electronic security technician, turf and Landscape management and computer sales representative.

Graduates from these programs "are almost assured of employment," said Turnquist.

Clover Park develops its training programs in close association with industry representatives according to identified job market needs.

Many of Clover Park's training programs are of relatively short duration, "from 12 weeks to about nine months in many case," he said. Most programs are "continuous enrollment," accepting students whenever vacancies exist.

People who are interested in gaining entry to the job market should contact the information center at Clover Park VTI, 584-7611.

Blacks Urged To Work More Closely With Blacks

Stanley S. Scott

WASHINGTON -- Black elected officials and corporate executives were recently urged to build stronger cooperative networks by Stanley S. Scott,

"so that we can help one another. Both the elected officials and the corporate executives would benefit in the process, and so would their communities," Mr.Scott said.

A former special assistant to President Ford and a former Assistant Administrator of the United States Agency for International Development for Africa,

IN SUPPORT OF "NETWORKING" -- Stanley S. Scott, urges an audience of black elected officials at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington to work more closely with blacks in corporate America and in other leadership groupings to promote the effectiveness of black American efforts. Sharing the program for the National Conference of Black Mayors with Mr. Scott were Chuck Williams, Member, Board of Commissioners, Fulton (GA) County and Quentin Lawson, Vice President of Public Technologies, Inc., Washington, D.C. Mr. Scott, a former Special Assistant to President Ford, told the elected officials that the temporary use of black corporate executives in black-led government administrations would help both these leadership groups and their communities.

HAVE YOU BELIEVED OUR REPORT
SERIES # 32
ISAIAH 53: 1 & 2

Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

For he shall grow up before him a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground.

He hath no form nor comilines: and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him.

WORDS OF WISDOM
II KINGS 2: 1-5

AND it came to pass, when the Lord would take up Elijah into heaven by a whirlwind, that Elijah went with Elisha from Gilgal.

And Elijah said unto Elisha, Tarry here, I pray thee: for the Lord hath sent me to Bethel. And Elisha said unto him, As the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Bethel.

And the sons of the prophets that were at Bethel came forth to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Lord will take away they master from thy head to day? And he said, Yea, I know it; hold ye your peace.

And Elijah said unto him, Elisha, tarry here, I pray thee; for the Lord hath sent me to Jericho. And he said, As the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho.

And the sons of the prophets that were at Jericho came to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Lord will take away thy master from thy head to day?

PRISONER'S CORNER

In an effort to keep our reades informed, Tacoma Facts will be publishing PRISONER"S CORNERS", A weekly article from the Prisoner's themselves However the opinions are not neccessarily those of the Publisher.

The Right To Personal Liberty

The right of personal liberty, thus inhering in man as an independent sentient being, though absolute and of inestimable value, is not without material qualifications. "MAN" says Montesquieu, "is born in society and there he remains." Government is essential to the preservation of society, and, in some form, everywhere prevails.

Thus, born in society and under government, enjoying the prileges of one and the protection of the other, he cannot rightfully exercise any power imcompatible with the well-being of either. Hence, each member of society, in the exercise of his right of liberty, as well as, of his other absolute rights, is subject to such limitations and penalties, as the common welfare and the just ends of government may require.

THE DUTY OF OBEDIENCE TO JUDICIAL MANDATES

The judiciary would hold but a barren scepter if their powers ceased with declaring the law. They are vested with a power to enforce as well as, pronounce their judgment. In many cases of contumacious conduct they secure obedience to their orders by attachments and commitment of the delinquent party. Imprisonment in such cases is not regarded merely as a punishment for a contempt, but as a necessary means of enforcing compliance with decision of the court. (in this case the State of Washington Supreme Court setting the rules of court CrR 3.3).

General Nature of the Writ of Habeas Corpus

The writ of habeas corpus is that legal process which is employed for summary vindication of the right of personal liberty when illegally restrained. It was the last of these only, which was designed to procure liberation from illegal confinement. It was directed to person detaining another, and commanded him to produce the body of the prisoner of person detained, together with a day and cause of his caption and detention, to submit to and receive whatsoever the court or judge awarding the writ might consider in that behalf.

Employed to vindicate the right of personal liberty by whatever power infringed, it became inseparable associated with that right; and in proportion as the right was valued, so was the writ by which it was defended. It was its grateful office which commended this species of the writ to the favorable regard of the people, and finally dignified it as The Writ Of Habeas Corpus.

Tony Brown's Comments

In last week's column, I laid out the NAACP's tremendous contributions -- opening housing, equal pay for Black teachers, the continuing struggle to end the mental genocide of the racist television depictions and an end to lynchings and power over Blacks through indiscriminate mob violence. I could have also mentioned the creation of the 99th Fighter Squadron and the 332nd Fighter Group, both all-Black WWII Air Force units, and the desegregation of the armed forcces and public schools. And in 1955, when Rosa Parks started the Montgomery bus boycott, she was that city's secretary of the N.A.A.C.P.

The fact that we owe the N.A.A.C.P. is obvious. But I don't base my case for resurrecting it on a historic basis alone. Just look at what a 1,000,000 member N.A.A.C.P. could do for us today. And many Afro-Americans are going to need a dependable organization to fall back on next year after the losing political fantasy many of them are involved in becomes apparent.

I predict that our rights are going to be jeopardized after the 1984 elections, the likes of which have not been since the days of Jim Crow. And we're going to need something more than charismatic promises and anti-Reaganism to halt this neo-reign of racist terror.

That "something" is going to be the stability of the 1,800 chapter-structure, leadership and legal brains of our biggest civil rights group. But we need at least 400,000 new "links" (members) in our new Chain of Freedom.

Therefore, I want you non-N.A.A.C.P. members to join me in doubling the size of the N.A.A.C.P. We must remember that our history is not a passive history of accepting discrimination, but an activist history of opposing it. And we can motivate our people only if we can market that cultural heritage. Black History Month provides this opportunity. Next February is also the 75th birthday of the Association. It has been marching for us for 75 years in pursuit of justice and freedom.

For example, the N.A.A.C.P. is our chain of strength in the struggle to enjoy the basic rights of the Constitution and each of us is a link in that chain. Therefore, throughout this membership campaign utilizing television, radio and print, I will emphasize: "If you knew our history, you'd know why you should be a N.A.A.C.P. member. Get the facts during Black History Month!"

In my opinion, most Blacks do not join the N.A.A.C.P. because they do not know that the N.A.A.C.P.'s struggle is their struggle -- and always has been. If we can make that association by using our history, we can double the membership of the Association. Of the 400,000 new ones that we need, I am accepting a quota of 100,000 (with the help of 4,000 other "links")

As a part of that campaign, I am presenting on public television during February a four-part special Black History Month series called "The Longest Struggle, " an exciting and historic account of the obstacles -- lynchings, segregation, Jim Crow, etc. -- and how the N.A.A.C.P. has helped us surmount them. But we need you to do more than watch and learn.

If 4,000 of you will become "links" in our "freedom chain" by purchasing a $10-N.A.A.C.P. membership and also sell four memberships to your friends -- and ask that each of them sell four memberships to their friends -- we will have 52,000 new members, created by our foundation of 4,000 freedom-hungry Afro-Americans. Certainly, between now and February, 4,000 out of 30,000,000 Blacks can do that. Write me and register as a "link."

I have secured 3,333 new youth memberships from a major corporation to be given free to 3,333 young people who will become active in youth chapters of the N.A.A.C.P. --especially on college campuses -- or establish new ones.

Also during February, we want you to demonstrate your economic power ($180 billion which equals the GNP of the ninth largest nation in the free world) by writing "N.A.A.C.P." on checks and credit card imprints when you pay bills during Black History Month.

This multi-media campaign to sell memberships by increasing awareness of the N.A.A.C.P.'s historic role in making today's benefits possible will help all of us understand why we need to pay something back to (Join) the guardian of our freedoms.

It is a campaign based on solid marketing principles and efficient usage of the media and the often overlooked fact that ethnic culture is an inclining factor in determinning the life chances of a racial group in a culturally pluralistic society.

The battle is joined, will you join the N.A.A.C.P.? If you're serious about helping to create a freedom safety net, write me and become a "link" in our new freedom chain at: Tony Brown Productions, Inc., 1501 Broadway, Suite 2014, New York, New York 10036.

TONY BROWN'S JOURNAL TV series can be seen on public television Saturday, on Ch 62 & Ch 15 at 6:30 pm. It can also be seen on channels 9, Saturday at 11:30 pm. Please consult listings.

New Partnership For Jobs

A new federally financed job training program recently went into effect, and private industry's large role in shaping and implementing it provides a fresh test of the viability of public-private partnerships in creating jobs for the disadvantaged.

The new program, the Job Training Partnership Act, replaced the old CETA program, but there are major differences. CETA emphasized public service jobs, but JTPA does away with them completely, stressing training instead.

Past experience shows that training doesn't guarantee jobs, but the new industry involvement is supposed to ensure that the disadvantaged are trained in skills for which there is a demand. How successful that will be at a time of high unemployment is open to question. CETA, for all of its faults, did provide people with jobs and paychecks while supplying important public services.

The new program has some built-in barriers that are troubling. The biggest of those barriers is the cut in funding. Its budget will be barely half of the old CETA program, and the money will be spread much more thinly.

Also, there is no provision for stipends for trainees. That means disadvantaged people who want training will have to have some means of support while they are in training. In effect, that limits the program to the least disadvantaged and the most highly motivated.

The result is likely to look good in terms of statistics showing higher percentages of trainees staying with the program and finding permanent jobs. But such figures will hide the fact that many would have found jobs on their own, and that many others most in need of training were not helped.

That was the experience of the Private Sector Initiative program of a few years ago that was part of CETA. Also geared toward business participation, it had a fairly good record. But experts said the program skimmed the most employable people while ignoring those most in need.

Now that the government has put all of its job and job training eggs in that private sector basket, it will be up to the business community to prove that it can do the job.

Many business leaders were cool to CETA, saying the private sector could do it better. They said bureaucracy and red tape discouraged wholehearted business participation. They fully support the new Job Training Partnership program.

But with that support comes responsibility, and many business leaders are very aware of that. The Chairman of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce told executives that if JTPA fails, "we will have no one to blame but ourselves."

Another top corporate leader said the new program "offers us the opportunity to do the job the way we felt it ought to be done." And he added, "it also may be the last chance as well .... if we fail this program does anyone believe we will be given another chance?"

So corporate America's reputation is on the line. Businessmen have been eloquent in opposing CETA and in arguing for a leading role in job training to the most disadvantaged, as well as to those who can make it on their own.

But others are on the line too -- the unemployed disadvantaged. They have suffered from underfunded, half-hearted federal programs that changed shape every couple of years, and from programs that promised more than they delivered.

The promises are very much in evidence again, in this new program. If it fails, their hopes will be victimized and their fading trust in both government and the private sector will vanish.

The program just started, so the jury will have to be out for a while. But a responsible business community has been given the opportunity it has long demanded and if it fights for expanded federal funding and extends its partnership to community based groups and the disadvantaged, it may just be able to deliver on its promises.

HAPPY THANKSGIVING

Because many families celebrate Thanksgiving in the month of November, a lot of time is spent planning and preparing a special and nutritious feast. Perhaps one of the nicest parts of this traditional day is that families sit down to eat together. What a nice change it can be to place the importance on the company, rather than on the foods involved.

Foods digest better when eaten in a calm, relaxed manner. This Thanksgiving, decide ahead of time to make it a pleasant day—a day to relax and appreciate life itself.

Diet Center suggests that you weigh yourself on Thanksgiving morning, just as you do every morning, and resolve that you will not gain weight. It is easy to eat until you feel stuffed and even uncomfortable, but you will enjoy Thanksgiving even more by eating only until you are comfortably full.

HAPPY THANKSGIVING!

PSALMS 71:1-17

IN thee, O Lord, do I put my trust: let me never be put to confusion.

Deliver me in they righteousness, and cause me to escape; incline thine ear unto me, and save me.

Be thou my strong habitation, where unto I may continually resort: thou hast given commandment to save me; for thou art my rock and my fortress.

Deliver me, O my God, out of the hand of the wicked, out of the hand of the unrighteous and cruel man.

For thou art my hope, O Lord God; thou art my trust from my youth.

By thee have I been holden up from the womb: thou art he that took me out of my mother's bowels: my praise shall be contiually of thee.

I am as a wonder unto many ; but thou art my strong refuge.

Let my mouth be filled with thy priase and with thy honour all the day.

Cast me not off in the time of old age; forsake me not when my strength faileth.

For mine enemies speak against me; and they that lay wait for my soul take counsel together

Saying, God hath forsaken him; persecute and take him; for there is none to deliver him.

O God, be not far from me: O my God, make haste for my help.

Let them be confounded and consumed that are adversaries to my soul; let them be covered with reproach and dishonour that seek my hurt.

But I will hope continually, and will yet praise thee more and more.

My mouth shall shew forth thy righteousness and thy salvation all the day; for I know not the numbers thereof.

I will go in the strength of the Lord God: I will make mention of thy righteousness, even of thine only.

O God, thou hast taught me from my youth: and hitherto have I declared thy wondrous works.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.
